Advancing Energy Policy, Infrastructure, and Innovation Across the South

The CSG South's Regional Energy Summit convenes state legislators, regulatory officials, energy agencies, and industry leaders from across the Southern states for a one-day, policy-focused dialogue on the most pressing energy challenges and opportunities facing the Southern region.

The Regional Energy Summit is a standalone, one-day event held on the opening day of the Southern Legislative Conference (SLC). While co-located with SLC to maximize convenience and participation, the Summit is independently programmed, registered, and sponsored. Participants may choose to attend the Regional Energy Summit only, SLC only, or register separately for both events and attend the full day of energy policy programming followed by the broader SLC conference.

Through expert panels and facilitated discussion, the Summit is designed to support practical, policy-relevant conversations that inform decision-making and strengthen collaboration between the public and private sectors.
